Anthropology 4

The graceless I
That was before we met,
Metamorphosed now,
And high in flight

Full-blown
With wondrous senses,
Myself exploding all with me
In kaleidoscopic ecstasy,

Might never have put wind to wing
But for your wealth
Of expectation in
The crysallid unfolding me;

And you there always,
Ever poking, prodding,
No time for wings to dry—
Now! Fly!
